

This bundle is provided under the Creative Commons license: Attribution-ShareAlike.

This license can be found on the Creative Commons website: <https://creativecommons.org/>

The specific link to the license deed, at the time of creation, is:

<https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-sa/4.0/>

Attribution.

The terms of the license require attribution when using this license, however this can be an onerous task to do every time you happen to share an image, so I have a few personal promises.

I will not under most normal circumstances chase you legally for failing to attribute. Similarly I request that nobody else should take action against you for this, including such actions as barring you from a competition.

I do consider it a matter of courtesy that you provide attribution when submitting a final image for a competition, or to a public gallery (on or off line).

If you run a website, patreon or other such personal artist page, then I would consider it a kindness to provide attribution somewhere on there, and would then consider it unnecessary to provide attribution for each piece of work you provide.

ShareAlike.

The terms of this license require any works you produce with these assets to be shared under the same license.

However this does not suit the nature of map assets particularly well, and I personally consider your own finished maps to not be adaptations and therefore I will never take legal action if you do not release these under the same license. This is specifically to allow artists to use these assets for commissioned maps or maps provided otherwise in return for payment.

If you adapt these assets and include them in any other asset pack, then I expect the share-alike terms of this license to be upheld. I have provided these assets free to the community and I expect people not to just change them, or shortcut their own work with them, and charge people for those assets.

Please do get in touch to show me your work using these. I'd love to see what people are doing with them.

Apprentice of Aule, 05/10/2020

ApprenticeOfAule@protonmail.com